TRANSPORT & EXCEPTIONAL PUBLIC EVENTS

Round Table 122

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTORY REPORTS

Report by W. HEINZE (Germany)

1. What gives life to an event?
2. What do we mean by “event” nowadays?
3. Structural typology of events from the transport planning standpoint
4. The central, intermediate and outer transport zones of an event
5. The planning procedure for events in Berlin
6. Actual strategies and desirable measures
7. Factors in the success of Berlin’s events
8. Mega-events in Berlin: the wrapping of the Reichstag, 1995 (5 million visitors in 14 days)
9. Mega-events in Berlin: Love Parade 2000 (1.2 million visitors in one day)
10. Mega-events in Berlin-Brandenburg: Biesenthal bikers’ meeting (30 000 motorcycle enthusiasts in a small town)
11. Lessons learnt from planning of events in Berlin-Brandenburg
12. Changes in framework conditions, deficiencies and new challenges
13. New events thrive on changes in framework conditions

Report by R. SCHNÜLL (Germany)

Traffic Planning and Management Concept for the Hannover EXPO 2000 – Implementation and Conclusions for Similar Events

1. World exhibition EXPO 2000: facts and conditions
2. Traffic planning concept for EXPO 2000
3. Traffic control and management system for EXPO 2000
4. Traffic control system for the Messeschnellweg
5. Handling of traffic during EXPO 2000
6. Transferability of the traffic planning and management concept
Report by H. KOCH and R. THALER (Austria)

Experiences and Conclusions derived from the Austrian Pilot Project – “Exceptional Events – Environmentally Friendly and Congestion Free”

Introduction
1. Provision of information – distribution of events handbook
2. Competition and implementation of pilot project: major events – environmentally friendly- and congestion free
3. Conclusions and follow-up with a view to wider implementation

Report by L. DE VOGELAERE (Belgium)

Mobility and the Euro 2000 Football Championship
1. Introduction
2. Lead-up to the event
3. The influx of supporters
4. Elements considered in preparing the plan
5. Road transport
6. Public transportation services
7. Air transport
8. Sea transport
9. Public relations
10. Conclusions

Report by F. POTIER (France)

Transport and Mega-events: Trends, Developmental Impacts and Typological Analysis

Introduction
1. Leisure mobility, the main cause of the sharp growth in mobility
2. A tentative quantification of the “events” phenomenon
3. An overall typology
4. The local economic and developmental impact of mega-events
5. Conclusions

Report by F. NUNES DA SILVA (Portugal)

The Case of the 1998 Lisbon World Exhibition EXPO 98

1. Exceptional public events: definition
2. A transport-specific typology of exceptional public events
3. Opportunities that should not be missed
4. The case of EXPO 98
5. A few lessons that can be drawn from the Lisbon experience
Report by P. BOVY (Switzerland)

Mega Sports Event Transportation and Main Mobility Management Issues
1. Mega events: main transportation issues
2. Mega-event transport: a wide spectrum and variety of situations
3. Multi-sports event transportation: organisation, strategies and management
4. Exceptional mobility management: The Sydney 2000 Olympic Games
5. Main transport and mobility management lessons learned from Sydney
6. Limits of the continuous growth of mega events

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS

During the Round Table participants submitted written contributions. These contributions are reproduced as complementary information.

K.-J. KIM (Korea)
Transportation plans for the 2002 Korea/Japan World Cup

P. MARIE (France)
City of Cannes

W. RYDZKOWSKI (Poland)
Pope John Paul II’s visit to Poland in 1999

SUMMARY OF DISCUSSION

(Round Table debate on reports)

LIST OF PARTICIPANTS